Legislature Adjourns In Confusion Stirred By Rights Amendment

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Its poise dissolving in a parliamentary scramble, the Legislature Thursday adjourned rather than face a vote on its old bugaboo — the rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, with the supposed support of 25 senators, presented the unicameral with a resolution to rescind its 1973 withdrawal of the 1972 ratification of the women's rights amendment.

The proposal, LR4, was immediately sent to the floor by the Reference Committee, rather than to a committee for hearing.

DeCamp then won 30-18 approval to suspend legislative rules to consider the issue "so we can put this matter to rest for this session."

Confusion, Indecision

But then the legislative fabric began to unravel in a sea of senatorial confusion and indecision.

Some senators wanted to send the resolution to a committee for a public hearing. Others objected to efforts to resolve the issue with a single vote, rather than send it through the three-stage floor approval process required to enact a bill.

The Legislature finally revoked its suspension of the rules (thereby requiring the resolution to undergo the three-stage process) on a 25-23 vote, and adjourned until Monday on a 24-21 vote before the issue could be put to its first vote.

Thursday's tangle was typical of the Legislature's past efforts in confronting the issue. In 1972, the Legislature ratified the equal rights amendment on a 43-0 vote.

But in 1973, with former Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha leading the charge, senators adopted a resolution withdrawing that ratification on a 31-17 vote.

While DeCamp's resolution attempts to rescind the Proud resolution, ironically it may have the same legal effect as Proud's — that is, probably none.

Some legal and constitutional experts have suggested that the original ratification stands, that it cannot be withdrawn or rescinded by subsequent action.

DeCamp happens to agree with that point, but he wants the 1975 Legislature to remove any doubt.

"There is no question in my mind that the original ratification would be upheld," he told newsmen after Thursday's adjournment.

The constitutional amendment simply states: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by a state on account of sex."

It also authorizes Congress to enforce the article by legislation.

Sen. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, the sole woman in the Nebraska Legislature, told her colleagues that 33 states have already ratified the amendment, with five more needed to implement the constitutional change.

The guarantee would have "far-reaching effects on all Americans," not just women, Ms. Marsh said.

But it would "not interfere with personal relationships," she insisted.

For Everyone'

"We will not have equality until (it) is passed," she said. "It's for everyone."

Not only will it guarantee equity for women, she said, it would allow widowers to receive the same Social Security benefits now extended only to widows and base alimony on ability to pay, rather than sex.

And it would extend the provisions of protective labor laws to both sexes, she suggested.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha, who attempted to send the resolution to committee for a hearing, said "proponents are afraid to have a public hearing" on the issue.

Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City said the amendment is sought only by "activists," and would result in the expenditure of "huge sums of money" by government to implement it.

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston suggested that the issue be placed before Nebraskans for a public vote.

Supporters Listed

Ms. Marsh listed the following senators as committed to support the resolution:

Gary Anderson of Axtell, Wally Barnett of Lincoln, Douglas Bereuter of Utica, George "Bill" Burrows of Adams, John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, Ernest Chambers of Omaha, Ron Cope of Kearney, John DeCamp of Neligh, Tom Fitzgerald of Omaha, Steve Fowler of Lincoln, Walter George of Blair, Ralph Kelly of Grand Island, Orval Keyes of Springfield, Gerald Koch of Ralston, Frank Lewis of Bellevue, Roland Luedtke of Lincoln, Shirley Marsh of Lincoln, Richard Marvel of Hastings, Jack Mills of Big Springs, Harold Moylan of Omaha, William Nichol of Scottsbluff, Myron Rumery of North Platte, Lorain Schmit of Bellwood, Harold Simpson of Lincoln, Larry Stoney of Omaha, Jerome Warner of Waverly.

Big Airlift Charted

... As Way To Help Cambodia

By SYDNEY H. SCHANBERG

@The New York Times

Phnom Penh, Cambodia — The United States Embassy here said Thursday that there is an emergency contingency plan to use the United States Air Force to run a massive airlift into Cambodia to keep the Phnom Penh government from falling to the Cambodia insurgents.

However, the embassy, responding to questions, said that this would be done only "as a last resort" and that it was "not even being considered at this point" — on the ground that the military situation did not yet warrant it.

But with the insurgents' current offensive now over two weeks old, the supply situation is not getting any better for the government. For the Communist-led insurgents have effectively cut the Mekong River, on which Phnom Penh is normally dependent for 80% or more of its supplies.

Not a single supply convoy — bringing American-provided food, gas, ammunition and other essentials from Thailand and South Vietnam — has been attempted up the river since the insurgents opened their annual dry season offensive on Jan. 1.

Phnom Penh is beginning to run short of basics. Gas rationing, for example, began on Monday.

So far the situation is not desperate, but the Lon Nol government will either have to

Poage, Hebert Lose Key Posts

From Press Reports

Washington — House Democrats on Thursday stripped Reps. W. R. Poage of Texas and F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana of their key posts as committee chairmen, as reformers continued an assault on the old-line power structure.

Liberal Democrats, acted in defiance of parliamentary traditions, and their own leadership's recommendations, but gave two other committee chairmen a fighting chance to retain seats believed lost.

Hebert, who has headed the House Armed Services Committee, was defeated in his bid for re-election as chairman and Poage, longtime head of the House Agriculture Committee, was rejected for continuation in that post, also by a caucus vote.

A Hebert aide promptly suggested the fight might be carried to the full House.

The successors to Hebert and Poage were not selected immediately, although the top positions on the two committees probably will go to the next most senior Democrats, Reps. Melvin Price of Illinois, on Armed Services, and Tom Foley of Washington, on Agriculture.

In a long afternoon of secret balloting, the Democrats gave a new lease on life to 81-year-old House dean, Wright Patman, of the Banking Committee and feisty Wayne Hays of the House Administration Committee, both of whom had been dumped by the Steering Committee.

The full caucus defeated the Steering Committee's recommendations for replacements: Henry Reuss of Banking and Frank Thompson of Administration.

House rules require new recommendations within five days, and the committee is thought likely to agree on Patman and Hays after all. It has scheduled a meeting Friday morning.

The defeat of four Steering Committee recommendations by the caucus is unprecedented, and demonstrated that the incumbent liberals and freshmen were in full control.

They had met with and questioned all of the controversial chairmen this week before deciding their fates:

—Poage, starting his 40th year in the House and chairman since 1967, was bumped 144 to 141.

—Hebert, a veteran of 34 years in the House and three years as chairman, was defeated 152 to 133.

—Patman, a Texan who entered the House in 1929 and assumed the banking chairmanship in 1963, was given a new chance at retaining the post when the Democrats rejected his recommended replacement, Reuss of Wisconsin, by 145 to 141.

—Hays, Ohioan first elected to Congress in 1948, got his chance to keep his chairmanship when the caucus defeated his proposed replacement, Thompson of New Jersey, by 176 to 109. Hays in any case would retain his post on the Campaign Financing Committee, which distributes campaign contributions to House members. Under House rules, when the Steering Committee's second nomination comes before the caucus, additional names can be offered from the floor.

Reuss promptly announced he will oppose Patman there, but Thompson said he will not run against Hays.

Poage said he will not fight the Democrats' action to remove him as chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

Hebert said he was the victim of a "propaganda show," engineered by Common Cause, a self-described citizens lobby.

Common Cause had issued a report this week on House chairmen that was particularly harsh on Hebert. The organization called his and Poage's defeat "the final healthy act of demolition that brings the seniority system crashing down."

The full House must vote on party recommendations for the chairmanship, but in the past this vote has been purely a pro forma one.

Deposing of the committee chairmen, along with retirements from the last Congress, left only eight of the 21 House chairmen returning to the powerful seats.

The chairmen are the heart of the seniority system which has come under heavy attack in the last two congresses.

Until now the chairmen have been elected solely because of having the longest service on committees.

Cook Admits Lying To Stall What He Saw As 'Witchhunt'

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

A contrite G. Bradford Cook testified Thursday he lied to a federal grand jury investigating illegal contributions to the Nixon re-election committee because he thought it was a "witchhunt" bent on smearing top Nixon associates.

Cook, a former Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) chairman and Lincoln native, said he did not know at the time that $200,000 in missing funds in the SEC's investigation of financier Robert Vesco were in fact illegal contributions to the Committee to Re-Elect the President.

An SEC lawsuit against Vesco did not explore Vesco's contributions to former President Richard Nixon's re-election effort. But Cook said it was not his decision to drop references to the missing $200,000, although he favored it.

Cook's testimony came before a referee looking into possible disciplinary action against Cook for lying under oath to the grand jury, to a Senate Committee and a House subcommittee.

Disbarment Possibility

Referee John Kuns, a retired district judge named to the post by the Nebraska Supreme Court, will make recommendations to the court whether to discipline Cook. Cook, a member of the Nebraska Bar Association, faces possible disbarment.

His attorneys, Robert Crosby of Lincoln and Jonathan Rosner of New York City, said Cook should be reprimanded but not disbarred.

"Brad committed an error," Crosby said. "The punishment he has suffered is enough. His career is in a shambles. This is something he'll never live down ... A reprimand is entirely adequate."

The 1974 figure was 11% below the 10-year average production.

Nebraska corn growers produced 381 million bushels of corn in 1974, down 31% from the record high in 1973. The average yield of 68 bushels per acre was 26 bushels less than last year and 36 bushels below the previous record high.

Farmers in the state harvested for grain 5% less acres in 1974 in spite of 5% more acreage planted to corn than a year earlier. Dryland corn totaled 66.8 million bushels in 1974 compared to 234.4 million bushels for the 1973 crop.

The 1974 drought held the average corn yield per acre to 26.1 bushels compared with 76.1 in 1973.

Corn yield from irrigated fields in Nebraska in 1974 stood at 314.2 million bushels, compared to 318.1 million bushels in 1973. The irrigated yield of 103 bushels per acre last year compares to the 1973 yield of 114 bushels per acre.

Sorghum producers in the state harvested 64 million bushels of grain sorghum in 1974, less than one half of the previous year's production. The average yield of 33 bushels per acre compared to 68 bushels per acre in 1973.

The sorghum crop was late in developing due to the drought and hot weather, and then was severely damaged by early September frost, as experts pointed out.

Soybean production in Nebraska totaled 29 million bushels last year 21% below the record high for 1973.

but was still the second highest of record.

"Soybeans made a remarkable recovery from the drought after the August rains," the report said.

Soybean yields averaged 24 bushels per acre, down six bushels from the previous year.

Hay production in the state totaled 6.5 million tons during 1974, down 14% from 1973.

Sugar beet production totaled 1.4 million tons, down 8% from a year earlier.

A bright spot of the 1973 season was the dry edible bean record 2.2 million cwt., 32% above the preceding year.

Popcorn production, too, in 1974 set a record with 119 million pound ear corn equivalent, up 35% from the previous record of 1973.

1974 Grain Harvest Off 34%

Economic Slump Sags Deeper

From Press Reports

Washington — The economy's decline steepened in the last three months, with total output dropping 9.1%, and inflation jumped to a near-record rate, the government reported Thursday.

Advance indications of the trend helped persuade President Ford to propose tax cuts this week in a move to cushion the recession, despite the risk of aggravating inflation. The Commerce Department reported Thursday on "real" Gross National Product — the total amount of goods and services produced, as distinct from the inflated dollar value.

In October, November and December, the department said, prices rose 13.7%, the fastest growth in the inflation rate since the government began keeping the records in 1947.

The GNP — the government's key measurement of economic activity — fell an equally startling 9.1% in the last quarter of the year, the sharpest drop since a 9.2% decline in the first quarter of 1958.

For the year, the GNP declined 2.2%. It was the biggest annual business slump since 1946. It was the first time the GNP has declined four consecutive quarters since the 1960-61 recession.

James L. Pate, the department's chief economist, said, "I don't think we're at the trough (recession bottom) yet." He predicted that the growth rate would take another "substantial" loss in the current January-March quarter.

"The current economic situation is very bad," he said grimly. "These are the facts. They speak for themselves. Everything is bad."

Drops in consumer spending, home construction, and a huge backlog of unsold goods such as automobiles, contributed to the sharp downturn in the GNP.

While predicting that the economy will begin to recover gradually in the second half of this year, administration officials have admitted they were not sure. Ford's anti-recession program is aimed more at improving the odds against falling through the floor than at producing a strong upturn.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen said congressional leaders of both parties rebuked the President his $12 billion rebate on 1974 taxes would be enacted with some modifications by April 1.

Several businessmen said Ford's proposals for higher fuel taxes as a means of curtailing energy consumption would simply add to inflation by increasing prices.

A spokesman for Delta Airlines said substantial fare boosts would be necessary and said such increases "will further inhibit already declining traffic growth and also add to inflationary pressures on the economy."

Edward E. Carlson, president of United Airlines, said the suggested $3-a-barrel tax on imported crude oil would make it "necessary to increase passenger fares and freight rates substantially to compensate for the added fuel costs."

Robert Williams, Illinois agriculture director, said costs for liquid nitrogen fertilizer, used in corn production, could go up $25 a ton, from $275 to $300, because of the proposed tax increase. Higher fertilizer costs might cause farmers to cut back production, Williams said, and lower production would mean higher consumer costs for grain and grain-based foods.

Truck drivers, who staged shutdowns last year to protest high costs for diesel fuel, said the new increases would cause them additional hardship. Millard Holden, president of the Independent Producers Haulers of America, said higher fuel costs will mean "an increase in freight rates and that means increased costs for produce. The consumer can't stand the prices now."

The administration has estimated that Ford's proposals — designed to cut energy consumption — would raise the cost of petroleum products about 10 cents a gallon and would add about $250 to the average family's fuel bill.

One aim of Ford's economic proposals is to get consumers to start spending again in order to encourage industrial production. The government said American industrial output dropped by 2.8 per cent in December, the largest monthly decline in nearly 16 years.

There were these other developments:

—The Commerce Department said retail sales of $10 billion last week was a drop of 2.2% from the previous week.

—Westinghouse said it is idling 500 employees at a gas turbine facility at Lester, Pa. Local General Motors officials notified 500 workers at a plant in Rochester, N.Y., they would be laid off for one week starting Monday.

—In Europe, a Belgian Banker said "faith in Ford's package is fading" and was responsible for a slump in the value of the U.S. dollar on all major currency exchange markets. The price of gold fell $1 to $176.75 a troy ounce in Zurich and $2.50 to $175.75 in London.

—In Washington, the United States and European Common Market nations reportedly agreed to make $31 billion available for oil consuming nations to help prop up the world monetary system in the face of the quadrupling of oil prices by oil exporting nations.

New York Times News Summary

Brezhnev Not Seen

Moscow — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam of Australia ended an official visit here Thursday without seeing Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, prompting some renewed speculation here about Brezhnev's health. No meeting with Brezhnev had been officially scheduled during the visit and Kosygin was a diplomatically correct alternative.

Soviets Deny Blame

Moscow — The Soviet Union asserted that it was not to blame for the collapse of the 1972 trade agreement and that it still sought trade with the United States, but only on a "mutually beneficial" basis. The statement was made through the official press agency, Tass, to rebut speculation in the Western press that Moscow's unwillingness to implement the agreement meant a departure from its policy of accommodation with Washington.

Soviet Envoy Leaves

Washington — American officials said Soviet ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin has been summoned to Moscow for a major review of foreign policy questions, including Soviet-American relations. The Soviet embassy confirmed that Dobrynin was planning to go to Moscow next week. Secretary of State Kissinger, in a television interview, said "I think detente has had a setback" as a result of Soviet-American trade problems.

Dossiers Discovered

Washington — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. said he had discovered, while investigating possible involvement of the CIA in Watergate, that the agency had compiled dossiers on a former Senate aide and a New York private investigator. Baker said the dossiers were only "two of the numerous indications of domestic activity" uncovered during his Watergate Committee probe.

Syndicates Found

New York — New York Secretary of State Mario Cuomo said in a report on the nursing-home industry, "There is now evidence that there are in existence a number of powerful syndicates which own multiple homes and which operate them as a big business. It would not be surprising to learn that like some other giant businesses dependent on public expenditures, the nursing-home industry had developed powerful political sources to protect its investment."

Heroin Trade Growing

Washington — Heroin from Southeast Asia is invading the European illicit market in a new and growing traffic that has U.S. narcotics experts worried. The traffic is already spilling over into New York where it may account for as much as 18% of heroin use.

FoMoCo Offers Rebates

Detroit (UPI) — Henry Ford II said Thursday the Ford Motor Co. (FoMoCo) is launching a cash rebate program "sweeter" than the campaign started this week by Chrysler Corp. to lure buyers into new car showrooms.

"We're going to offer a rebate program of $200 to $500 per car — we are going to make it a little bit sweeter than Chrysler's," the Ford chairman said. His statement surprised his public relations staff, which hadn't been set to announce the plan until Friday.

The Ford plan begins immediately and runs through February. It will give buyers of five small car lines and one light truck model cash rebates of $200 to $500. Chrysler's plan, which began Monday, is limited to selected models within a car line and will range from $200 to $400 over its five-week run.

Buyers of Ford Pintos, Mavericks and Mercury Comets can expect rebates of $200; a $300 rebate on the 1975 Mustang II hardtop and Two Plus two models; a $500 rebate on 1975-model Mustang II Mach One models and Ghia models; a $500 rebate on 1974-model Capris and $350 on Ford's new supercab light trucks.

The No. 2 automaker had planned to stage an elaborate news conference Friday to announce the sales promotion campaign to counter Chrysler's "Car Clearance Carnival." General Motors hasn't joined the rebate game, but has told customers they'll be protected if the No. 1 company decides later to cut prices or offer rebates.

The Ford chairman said the campaign was needed because "sales are not too good at the moment." Ford sales in the opening 10 days of the new year fell 29% from last year's already depressed levels.

Explosion Promised If Israel Stands Fast

From Press Reports

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat Thursday gave Israel three months to make further withdrawals from occupied Egyptian, Syrian and Jordanian territory. Otherwise he said the Arabs, including the Palestinians, would "explode everything" when the Geneva Middle East peace conference resumes.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon, in Washington for talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, said Sadat's statement was "not too good," but that he hoped it was not the Egyptian leader's "last word."

Government sources in Jerusalem said Israel does not want to negotiate with Egypt under pressure of a time limit and is not going to be frightened into making a peace settlement. One source said: "Sadat is not going to scare us into an agreement."

Kissinger, who has been trying to negotiate a second stage Israeli withdrawal from Egypt's Sinai as part of his unilateral step-by-step approach to peace, opposes early resumption of the Geneva conference at which the Soviet Union would play a major role.

Sadat's warning came in an interview with the Beirut newspaper An Nahar as:

S. Viet Planes Hit Red Convoy

Saigon (UPI) — South Vietnamese warplanes Thursday knocked out half of a North Vietnamese convoy of 150 trucks and armored vehicles in a drive to block a threatening Communist buildup in the Central Highlands, field officers said.

The latest raid by Air Force A37 Dragonfly fighter-bombers was the third this week against convoys of trucks and armored vehicles moving over the Ho Chi Minh trail from Laos into South Vietnam's Kontum Province, 290 miles northeast of the capital.

The Saigon command said Thursday's air attacks destroyed at least 75 of the 150 trucks and armored vehicles, boosting such losses to the Communists since Monday to at least 280 vehicles and 213 soldiers killed, according to the South Vietnamese tally.

The Communists' six-week-old winter campaign edged closer to Saigon when the Viet Cong fired eight rockets at Quang Trung army training center, only 10 miles northwest of the capital, killing two persons and wounding 44, the Saigon command reported.

In Cambodia, pro-Communist rebels Thursday fired eight rockets at the country's main overseas communications center at Kambul 10 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R.I., ending a four-day visit to Cairo, warned of a "devastating" fifth Middle East war unless there is a breakthrough in peace negotiations soon. Percy told a news conference that in Cairo "as in the other Middle Eastern capitals that I've visited these past two weeks, there is almost a unanimous feeling that time is running out."

Should a new war break out, said a former top adviser to Egyptian presidents, Mohammed Hassanien Heikal, it would bring once again Arab use of the oil weapon, but this time "in an uncontrolled way with all the consequences this would have for the industrialized countries of the world and the world economy in general." He spoke in New York.

Israeli troops battled Lebanese artillery and Palestinian guerrillas in southeast Lebanon for the fifth day. The Israeli military command said four guerrillas were killed at Kfar Chouba, a village one mile inside Lebanon which has been a major target for the Israeli attacks this week, while two Israeli soldiers were wounded. Palestinians said they beat back two Israeli tank assaults on Kfar Chouba and said the Israelis also were shelling other villages.

Lebanese military spokesmen said the Israelis suffered "heavy casualties" when Lebanese gunners shelled an armored column and the border settlement of Metulla.

A bomb exploded under a car near the Damascus hotel where a delegation of Saudi Arabians accompanying King Faisal on his state visit to Syria were staying. The bomb damaged the car, which belonged to a Syrian businessman, and startled hotel guests, but caused no injuries. Faisal was staying in a guest mansion several blocks away.

Egypt announced that Sadat and his wife would visit France Jan. 27-29 at the invitation of French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. It will be Sadat's first visit to a Western country since he became president in 1970.

Sadat said in the interview he has not received any new peace proposals from Israel via the United States.

"I will accept nothing less than an Israeli move on three fronts — and within three months," Sadat said. "This is a conclusive year because next year, 1976, is an election year in America."

If nothing is accomplished soon, and very soon, we would then go to Geneva, all of us, including the Palestinians and explode everything there.

"We ourselves will explode the situation at the time of our own choosing. We (Arabs) will be one rank, and when the Geneva peace conference materializes, it will be final and conclusive, and not merely (to discuss) a few kilometers under disengagement (arrangements)" Sadat said.

Center Hits Mobile Homes

The New York Times

New York — Mobile homes, the supposed low-cost alternate to conventional housing for millions of Americans, are instead highcost, shoddily built dwellings with worthless warranties, according to the Center for Auto Safety, which has released the results of a 2½-year investigation of the mobile home industry.

The center, a nonprofit public interest group that was begun by Ralph Nader but now operates independently, has published the results of the investigation in a book called "Mobile Homes: The Low-Cost Housing Hoax."

The book charges, "a large portion of mobile home owners are saddled with problems and victimized by abuses that tell the story of an industry whose interest in maximum profits and expansion has outweighed its concern about safety, quality and integrity."

The book makes the following charges:

Mobile home living is no bargain. The low initial price of a mobile home is at least partly offset by other factors, many of them hidden from the prospective buyer, according to the center. For example, loans for the financing of mobile homes carry interest charges like those for cars or television sets rather than the lower mortgage charges for conventional homes.

Unlike convention homes, which generally appreciate in value, mobile homes depreciate. The book quotes a 1972 study by the First National City Bank that says that mobile homes lose approximately 37% of their value in 4½ years, and 72% after 10½.

"Disturbingly large numbers" of mobile homes are defect-ridden. About 750 complaints of construction defects ranging from hazardous wiring and leaky roofs to toilet paper holders too narrow to hold a roll of tissue were received by the center.

Warranties fail to fix clearly responsibility for defects. Persons seeking repairs under warranty, the center charges, are often shuttled between the manufacturer and the dealer, with each denying responsibility.

Mobile home park owners run their parks like "miniature fiefdoms." The center charges that because of a nationwide shortage of park space (due primarily to restrictive zoning) park operators often charge exorbitant rents and require prospective tenants to buy their homes from dealers, who then give kickbacks to the park owner.

A Widespread Problem

A revolution is needed, but not just the "revolutionizing" Frank Golden contemplates for the county treasurer's office. The revelation by a state auditor's report of the sloppy conduct of the public's business in the Lancaster County treasurer's office ought to be a catalytic force leading to a revolution in the entire county government system.

The auditor's report focused on questionable bookkeeping, procedural and investment policies which recently re-elected County Treasurer Golden admits have been in practice for 25 and maybe 40 years and which he now says he will correct.

But new-found good intentions aside, what has happened in the treasurer's office and what has transpired since the state audit and subsequent report and recommendations exemplifies the sad state of the system as it exists in Lancaster County.

And for a microcosmic explanation of the situation, we refer to the conversation at a recent meeting between the Lancaster County Board and Golden.

Carnage In Congress

After allowing them to croak out a few words in their own defense last week, the freshmen-invigorated House Democratic caucus toppled some of the old boys from power Thursday.

In a major attack on the House seniority system, Democrats voted to toss out Edward Hebert of Louisiana, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and W. R. Poage of Texas, head of the Agriculture Committee. Hebert, 73, vowed to take the fight to the House floor.

Unhorsing ancient tyrants, Henry Reuss of Wisconsin called it earlier. Reuss, a mellow 62 with ten terms under his belt, failed in a bid to replace Chairman Wright Patman of the Banking Committee. Patman, of Texas, is 81.

Putting the ancient autocrats to the sword however, does not mean that Congress will leap to its collective feet, seize the initiative from a deliberate and

Watch On Waste

WASHINGTON — The Gama Goat, a bouncing new Army field truck, may not be as rugged as its namesake but it is as stubborn to control. The $200 million project has been plagued with problems, but the procurement just keeps going on and on.

Now a secret General Accounting Office report indicates that the Army brass lied to Congress when they claimed the truck's defects had been corrected.

The brass assured the House Armed Services Committee in 1972 that the problems had been solved and the truck was running fine. Taking them at their word, Congress permitted them to go ahead with the procurement.

But the GAO report, which we have obtained from locked files, alleges that the Gama Goat isn't doing well at all. "Almost all of the Army personnel expressed dissatisfaction with the vehicle," declares the secret report. The users felt "the vehicle lacks durability... was difficult and exhausting to drive... and that it was oversophisticated and a piece of junk."

The GAO also questioned the mobility of the truck, which is supposed to deliver supplies to the front lines. It should be able, therefore, to roll over rough terrain and to cross streams like a barge.

Yet drivers claimed, according to the GAO, that the truck was difficult to steer up hills, "handles poorly in light snow... slips and slides in shallow mud... and cannot cross tundra."

The drivers also complained that the truck has a tendency to pop out of gear. Unless they are careful while shifting, "the axle or propeller shaft universal joints will break."

As for the truck's swimming capability, the report charges that the Gama Goat can enter the water only from gently sloped banks with firm soil. "Speed of entry is restricted to a maximum of two MPH and... cannot be made into a... current in excess of four MPH or when the wind blows in excess of 20 MPH."

Incredibly, the GAO also found that "most of the vehicles have damaged tailgates that would cause them to sink." Indeed, the vehicles are in need of constant repair, the GAO states.

Despite these failures and the millions spent on the project, the Army is seeking another $6.5 million for a "product improvement program." The GAO has suggested maybe the Army should just dump the project.

Footnote: A spokesman said the Army is "still evaluating" the secret GAO findings and expects to have a response by April. Meanwhile, the spokesman insisted that the truck's "performance has been more than satisfactory since its initial fielding."

Early this year, the Senate Commerce Committee will call in government officials to find out why they failed to protect workers from vinyl chloride, the deadly gas used to make plastics, auto upholstery, garden hoses, phonograph records and other goods. The gas has caused liver cancers in vinyl chloride workers and is suspected of causing birth defects in Ohio towns near an industrial plant using the gas

WASHINGTON — The gentlemen who make (or imitate) policy in this troubled city are speeding a tax cut to restore public economic morale. They argue that with a few hundred more dollars to spend, the average family will flock to the stores and auto showrooms, and the nation's cash registers will sound a brisk chorus of returning economic confidence.

Maybe. But probably not.

SAFIRE

NEW YORK — We have a slogan. On his television teaser Monday night, President Ford spoke of his "New Direction;" he repeated it twice in his State of the Union address Wednesday, in his transmittal Although consumer spending may get a small boost, the hasty way in which the White House and Congress are rushing into a minimally conceptualized tax cut does nothing to restore the confidence of serious persons. More attention ought to be paid to warnings by Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns and Treasury Secretary William Simon that a major tax reduction and record budget deficit could increase the chance of economic collapse.

Tax-cut proponents aim to increase low- and middle-income consumer spending by $15 to 30 billion. House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman says, "There is no reason to give tax relief to people who would put the money in the bank." Business, especially the automobile industry, hopes that reduced taxes will give consumers the wherewithal to buy the products they haven't been inclined to purchase.

This logic depends on a critical assumption: that the American people are ready to spend money on merchandise at today's high prices. Or is it more correct to argue that the major reason for declining sales is that middle Americans, where possible, would rather put their money into savings or reduction of debts than spend it on overpriced goods and services? Combined business and labor greed — on top of government-fanned inflation — have priced too many articles beyond demand. Besides, many families stocked up earlier, hedge-buying while costs were lower, which also serves to limit demand.

My associate, pollster Albert Sindlinger, says that his day-to-day telephone polls of consumer sentiment find little support for the idea that most tax cut savings will flow into the marketplace. This data indicates that many people will increase their savings or reduce their debts instead of buying overpriced goods.

If one accepts this reasoning, then a tax cut will stimulate only a small amount of additional consumer spending — a literal drop in the figurative bucket. Even so, no great harm would be done except for the consequences that a tax cut will have on the federal deficit, inflation and interest rates.

Bluntly put, if there is a $15 to 30 billion tax cut, the fiscal 1976 deficit is likely to run anywhere from $35 billion to $60 billion, the largest federal deficit in history. Liberal theoreticians say that isn't so bad because a $35 billion deficit would represent the same percentage of the Gross National Product as the $12 billion Eisenhower deficit did during the 1958 recession (when the GNP was only one-third as big). The inflationary impact won't be any worse than it was then, they say.

Unfortunately, this fails to allow for the very different interest rate and credit circumstances. Back in 1958, interest rates were half what they are now. Circa 1958, banks were liquid and safe, after a quarter-century of careful (post-1933) management. But the last decade has been one of financial recklessness. Today, Federal Reserve Board authorities are privately worried sick about illiquidity and possible crises in several dozen important banks. The United States has become a debt economy, with public and private debt totalling $2.3 trillion — three times the 1958 figure.

Against this financial backdrop, the huge probable deficit attendant upon a tax cut could be dangerous. The federal government would be forced to cover the deficit by raising $35 to 60 billion in the marketplace, competing with private borrowers (including corporations borrowing to survive). Inflation would accelerate. Interest rates, which have been declining, will begin rising again, choking banks and corporations that can barely get enough cash to keep their doors open. In short, a deficit-deepening tax cut could be the ultimate consummation of a decade of irresponsible policies and lead to calamity in the credit system.

to inundate recession in a sea of red ink. The profession of economics is in a state of palsied disarray at the moment, as punchy and puzzled as the polling industry after the 1948 election; privately, even administration economists admit, that nobody can confidently say whether the direction pointed out by the consensus is right or wrong.

On energy policy, the President has urged steps both dramatic and conservative. He has taken the price route to discourage oil imports and to put a floor under the price of domestic supply: this should induce all consumers of oil, not just motorists, to conserve, and should stimulate internal production. Many of the ways he suggests pumping these tax receipts back into the economy makes sense.

Overriding both the energy and economic proposals, however, is this question: How well has Gerald Ford done in this, his real debut week, as president — and how well has Congress shown that two branches of government can work together on energy and the economy?

The answer: Not well at all.

The President's State of the Union message is the single most important communication between the executive and legislative branches mandated in the Constitution. Over two centuries, it has come to be treated by presidents as a benchmark in their stewardship; in this century, it has often been presented in person by the president to his co-equal branch, and has been received — if not always in admiration — at least always in respect and dignity by the House and Senate in joint session.

Consider what has happened this week. The Democratic leadership of the Congress, in a lust to grab the credit for recommending a popular tax cut, upstaged the President on Monday with a program all its own. Substantively, it was an insult to the voter's intelligence, with its dire finger-wagging at high interest rates while it proposed enormous deficits that ensure high interest rates; institutionally, it was an insult to the executive branch, which — this week — it owes the courtesy of an interested reception of proposals.

And how did the new President react? Tipped off to the planned upstaging and eager to dominate the headlines as the savior who proposed a tax cut, Ford followed the panicky advice of his closest aides to present a prime time television pitch Monday night, calling upon all Americans to make the sacrifice of accepting a tax rebate.

The next day, Tuesday, with his program presented lopsidedly, the President's press secretary put out a great many of the answers to questions raised in the President's teaser. The media, as they are geared to do, followed the President's lead, concentrating on his program for a second day, downplaying the congressional reaction to the teaser speech, cross-plugging the next day's show.

That anti-climatic show was Wednesday's afternoon presentation of the details of the program previously hinted out, designed to provide filmed highlights for Wednesday night TV network news. That third bite at the apple, effectively overwhelming the congressional play at gaining voter credit for the tax cut, was what we used to call "the president's annual State of the Union address."

Certainly the strategy succeeded in feeding the story out over a full week. But what did it tell us about the state of the relations between the Congress and the President, and about the way Ford views his office?

Congress, we now see, stands ready to one-up the President at any opportunity, tradition and good taste be damned. Piously proclaiming no "politics as usual" at a time of national difficulty, the Congress has shown it intends to play politics with unusual intensity, to the extent of disguising agreement in the cloak of controversy.

The President, we have seen this week, is a Truman-style scrapper: Like his hero, he is a man of the Congress thrust into the presidency unexpectedly, who knows the ploys that congressmen play. When "the boys" tried to finesse Ford, he gave them the old media one-two-three.

But a president is the president. He ought to act with deliberation and dignity. He need not be personally stiff nor programmatically rigid, but he ought to have some sense of decorum and concern for history. When he finally came around to delivering his heavily-leaked address, Ford did well to confess that the State of the Union was "not good;" one way to help it get better is for the President to conduct himself with the high seriousness expected of a man charting a "new direction."

(c) New York Times Service

Harry Truman in his address, Ford has indicated whose beckoning he follows.

On economic policy, Ford has evidently concluded that inflation is no longer a problem — its reduction is not even listed among the five goals of the new direction — and he has proposed messages for the budget and economic reports in coming weeks the "New Direction" will flutter like a banner over the fine print.

Cartoonists will at long last have a symbol: arrows and signposts will proliferate, weather-center of the world. And the Roman empire was about to crack up.

We may invite a similar fate if we allow an inordinate pursuit of pleasure and leisure to become the end-all of life. Any civilization inevitably decays when man forgets that his happiness for time and for eternity depends more on what he puts into life through laborious effort than on what he takes out in easy pleasure.

Will the large number of people laid off from work give us food for thought?

No Justice Anywhere

Lincoln, Neb. — Mr. Ford's "kindness" overwhelms me. He slips a tax cut in one of our pockets and grabs more back by an increase in the price of gasoline.

Then there's the old "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." So they all agree to give everyone a raise. A while back they were for chopping off food stamps from the needy. Some stamps are not given by welfare but bought with Social Security checks.

Depression, recession, frustration are going full blast; yet builders and city planners are high on reviving old mall plans, and just any old place will do. So they get their cut. Sidewalk decorations, double lighting and constantly flowing fountains are a luxury as far as the taxpayers are concerned. Their lights and water at home, like the fountains, have spouted skyward in cost.

The Star reports that those who keep lawns and gardens green will be charged higher rates, 25 cents per 100 cubic foot. But for larger users, there will be a lower base demand rate of 14 cents per cubic foot. Why?

No, sire, there just ain't no justice. The rich get richer, and they bleed the poor to starvation.

SOD-BUSTER

Finally Nearing Utopia

Falls City, Neb. — Voters are going to have one heck of a time in 1976 trying to determine which of the two powers — the press or television — is best suited to take over reins of government!

Thus far they have run neck and neck. Both score 100% in effecting demolition of national securities agencies, in promoting the cause of revolution, and in pushing our constitutional form of government over the ledge to suicide.

But one thing is certain of both "opinion-molders" — if anything goes wrong, each has the sanctuary of the First Amendment to hide behind. Consequently, no one is held accountable. End result: the utopia we've all looked forward to.

Patient, The Loser

Lincoln, Neb. — Two recent federal regulations will further direct the type of care Medicare and Medicaid patients are to receive.

An entry in the Federal Register (effective February 14, 1975) provided for maximum allowable costs of drugs. This requires pharmacists to substitute for drugs prescribed by the physicians on the basis of reimbursed costs.

Secondly, effective February 1, 1975, a new HEW regulation requires utilization review of Medicare and Medicaid patients within 24 hours following admission of the patient to the hospital. How a regulation such as this can be met is not explained.

The original Medicare Act stipulated that the federal government would not interfere in the practice of medicine. This is deceit. Again, it is the patient who is the loser. Moreover, it is only the beginning.

LOUIS J. GOGELA, M.D.

New Medicare, Medicaid Regulations Criticized

Generally we think that things were handled quite well and especially would like to commend the Police Department for the fine work they did and for finally getting our children home from school.

We are especially concerned about two things that happened:

(1) Children were not sent home early enough from school. Schools in Omaha, state offices and private businesses decided to send people home while the Lincoln school system was still debating what to do. It seems to me that the decision to send the children home could have been made earlier with the advice from the Weather Bureau and the Police Department. Some fail-safe criterion for making this decision should be established.

(2) Our children were stuck at Calvert School. Our contact with the school until about five p.m. left us with a clear impression that there is no clearcut procedure for dealing with an emergency such as this. It appears as though the principal made an independent decision to keep the children overnight with no guidance from the superintendent's office. Our phone call to the superintendent's office at five p.m. went unanswered. Dissatisfied with what was NOT being done, we called the police who were unaware that the children were still in the school.

It is frightening to think that a child who requires medication may be trapped in a school with the possibilities of serious consequences. We strongly suggest that the Lincoln Public Schools devise procedures for dealing with such emergencies and distribute copies to ALL teachers.

Equal Rights Amendment Revival Said Meaningless

By LINDA OLIG

Star Staff Writer

This week's attempt to revive the Equal Rights Amendment in the Unicameral was essentially meaningless as far as Lincoln feminists are concerned.

The general feeling among the leaders of the women's movement in Lincoln is that once the ERA was adopted by the 1972 installment of the Legislature, that was the final step.

They consider the turnout of the 1973 null and void.

'A Bit Futile'

"I find it all a bit futile," said Yvonne Leung, Women's Lobby.

"Regardless of what they do, it (the recession) still will have to go through the court procedure." The historical precedent is that a prior ratification cannot be withdrawn.

Dee Clouse, president of the National Organization for Women (NOW), said members of the Lincoln Chapter "assumed it (Nebraska's ratification) would be counted in among the 38 states" required to ratify the amendment. Only five states are needed before the ERA becomes part of the U.S. Constitution.

Rather, the feminists are taking the attitude that this week's petition drive conducted by Sens. Shirley Marsh of Lincoln and John DeCamp of Neligh was simply a reaffirmation of Nebraska's support of the proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution, said Jean O'Hare, executive director of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Feminists hope the amendment will be ratified and attached to the Constitution this year, International Women's Year.

Changed Minds

That several senators who voted against the ERA in 1973

"have changed their minds," or at least indicated a shift by signing the well-circulated petition "has made me very happy," Leung said.

But the feminists are holding their breaths until Thursday has come and gone. Depending on decisions on the floor of the Legislature, the petition may be rejected and a bill may force the issue into another hearing, said Kappie Weber of Women's Communication Center, a coalition of women's organizations across the state.

"It hardly needs another hearing," Leung said.

Although Mary Jane Humphrey, action vice president for the Nebraska League of Women Voters, wants the state "clearly on record in support of the ERA," she's not sure that a hearing will be the answer.

"I don't think people on either side would like to see the situation of two years ago repeated," she said, referring to the rescission battle during which "any rational discussion of the merits, pro or con, was almost impossible."

No strategy has been decided yet," Weber said.

"We want it treated as a resolution, sent off and forgotten," Leung said.

Firemen, Police Death Benefits May Be Granted

Bills were introduced in the Legislature Thursday which would grant death benefits to firemen, policemen and agents of the State Liquor Control Commission who are killed in the line of duty.

Introduced by Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha was LB221. That measure would grant state payments of $10,000 to firemen or policemen killed in the line of duty.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood introduced LB228. That measure would grant $20,000 in death benefits for Liquor Control Commission agents killed in the line of duty.

The bill would also provide an alternative to the flat $20,000 provision. It would allow the beneficiary to opt for retirement benefits due the agent killed.

Otoe County District Judge Morrissey Dies

Syracuse (AP) — Otoe County District Judge Robert Morrissey died unexpectedly, apparently of a heart attack at his home Thursday. He was 58.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Paulinus Catholic Church in Syracuse.

He was elected judge in 1972. He was a former Syracuse city attorney, school board president, city councilman and commander of the local American Legion post. He also had served as deputy Otoe County attorney.

Morrissey was a veteran of eight years in the Army during World War II, during which he was advanced to the rank of a full colonel at the age of 26.

He was a member of the Nebraska Bar Association.

For 11 years he owned and operated the Syracuse Transfer Co.

Survivors include his widow, Emilene, and 11 children.

The awards, sponsored annually by the Lincoln Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees, has been opened to both sexes this year for the first time. It was formerly called Five Outstanding Young Men of Lincoln.

Information on banquet tickets is available at the Chamber of Commerce.

NU Repuest For Funds Unlikely To Be Approved

The University of Nebraska's request for a deficit appropriation to make up losses in anticipated tuition revenue appeared unlikely Thursday to gain legislative approval.

NU has requested a $30,534 general fund budget addition to meet its shortage.

But budget aides for Gov. J. James Exon joined with the legislative fiscal staff in advising the Unicameral's Appropriations Committee against approving the request, at least at this time.

The committee has suggested that deficit budget requests approved by the governor's aides should be presented to the

16-Year-Old Omahan Charged With Fatal Stabbing Of Girl, 7

Omaha (AP) — A 16-year-old youth was charged with first-degree murder Thursday in connection with the stabbing death Wednesday of a seven-year-old girl.

The Douglas County sheriff's office said Douglas Lawson was charged in Douglas County Court. No bond was set, the sheriff's office said.

Brenda Lee Bremer, who lived with her parents and younger brother in the Atkins Mobile Home Ranch, was found dead about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday after being stabbed several times.

The youth is suspected of breaking into the mobile home and stabbing the girl with a knife he took from the kitchen.

Douglas County Sheriff's Capt. Rex Gruber said the youth allegedly then returned the knife to a kitchen drawer where it was found by officers.

The girl was found on the living room floor by her father, Ken Bremer, when he returned from work.

Roads Dept. May Scrap Expressway

By United Press International

The State Department of Roads may very well scrap a proposed 50 mile north-south expressway from Crete to the Kansas state line, a spokesman said Thursday.

Further, he said, when the law was passed two years ago to return Memorial Day to its traditional May 30 date there really wasn't the "great push" for the change as was the case concerning Veterans Day.

By observing the holiday on Monday, Luedtke said that would actually give people three days to make their visits to cemeteries rather than just the one day.

Luedtke said he was introducing the bill because observing Memorial Day on May 30 has caused traffic problems at many Nebraska cemeteries.

Further, he said, when the law was passed two years ago to return Memorial Day to its traditional May 30 date there really wasn't the "great push" for the change as was the case concerning Veterans Day.

Because of the controversy from farmers and landowners surrounding the proposal and a lack of funds, George Koster said the department is giving "serious consideration" to improving U.S. 77 instead of constructing the four-lane expressway.

Koster, roads department executive secretary, said unless "something unexpected occurs" within the next eight days, he has "little doubt" the State Highway Commission will reject the proposal when it meets in Lincoln Jan. 24.

The commission last March approved the corridor, but in the wake of public protests, Gov. J.J. Exon asked for a re-evaluation.

Koster said state road building finances have been "cut in half" and doubted if Nebraska could afford to build the corridor for another 15 years.

In addition, he said the total traffic count in the area involved has decreased and the 55 mile per hour speed limit would decrease the travel time factor offered by the expressway.

Rumery said the transaction would involve a purchase price of about $500,000. He said it has been figured the state could own its own building in about 10 years without paying any more than it now does in office rent.

Groundwater Quality Deterioration Is Seen concentrations of nitrate-nitrogen have been going up in this general region, Spalding said.

While the causes for such groundwater deterioration cannot be pinpointed precisely at this time without additional investigation, Spalding said that commercial fertilizer is undoubtedly a major contributing source to some zones of high nitrate-nitrogen concentrations.

To pinpoint the exact cause of the groundwater problem in a given area requires more research, explained Spalding, who announced that the Conservation and Survey Division plans to initiate a research effort that involves fingerprinting sources using nitrogen isotopic ratios.

Another research program of the Conservation and Survey Division includes a research effort in Hall and Buffalo counties to determine the extent of dilution in seepage from the Platte River. This involves the drilling and monthly monitoring of 61 wells in the region close to the Platte River.

Quakes Send People Fleeing Sicilian Cities

Messina, Sicily (UPI) — Two earthquakes within two hours Thursday sent thousands of persons fleeing in panic into the dark streets in the twin cities of Messina and Reggio Calabria that were wiped out by quakes 66 years ago.

Two men, aged 67 and 59, were the only reported casualties. Doctors said they died of heart attacks caused by fear. No damage was reported.

The first tremor hit the port city of Messina and Reggio Calabria, 10 miles across the Strait of Messina, at 1:10 a.m. The Messina geophysical observatory said it measured six to seven on the 12-degree Mercalli scale, strong enough to cause serious damage in poorly designed buildings.

March Of Dimes Volunteers Plan Sunday Canvass

More than 1,600 mothers from Lancaster County will be on the march Sunday for the Lancaster Chapter of the March of Dimes.

Judy Waltermath, chairman of this year's march, said more than 2,000 volunteers are involved in the project, to raise funds for the fight against birth defects.

Meat Exporting Hopes Said Dim

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editor

There wasn't much good news for cattlemen in the Red Meat Marketing Conference held at the Nebraska Center here Thursday.

Ed Eisanach, a livestock economist with the Foreign Agriculture Service in Washington, D.C., predicted that it would become increasingly difficult to export meat products to the European Economic Community, Japan and Canada in the next two years.

"I really don't see anything on the scene to suggest any improvement in world meat markets in either 1975 or 1976," he told the conference delegates.

Ed Uvack, an economist from Texas A&M, spread the gloom to the consumers as well by predicting that the cost of turning cattle to meat would increase in the coming years.

'Can Only Go Up'

"With the increased cost of labor, packaging material, demands for better grading and all the rest of the cost factors for processing meats, there is just one way the cost can go and that is up," he said.

The news from the conference about world supplies of foods was also bad.

Dr. John A. Hannah, a former director of the Agency for International Development, predicted that more than 10% of all the people on earth would

Elderly Omaha Fatally Stabbed; Neighbor Jailed

Omaha (AP) — A 64-year-old man, identified as Albert Seger of Omaha, was stabbed to death Wednesday night, apparently as the result of an argument with a neighbor, police said.

Officers said a 59-year-old man who lived in the same apartment building had been booked on suspicion of homicide in connection with the incident.

Police quoted the suspect as saying that he and Seger were fighting when Seger allegedly struck the suspect on the head with his cane. Officers said the suspect called police.

Pastor Given Hay For Birthday

Geneva — It was an unusual birthday gift which the pastor of the First Congregational United Church of Christ was presented here recently. His congregation surprised the Rev. Vernon D. (Pete) Jones with 200 bales of hay. He keeps three horses on an acreage he dubbed "Shalom." The church members also threw in a more conventional cake and a bit of cash. The latter was designated for the purchase of — no hay — oats.

Contractors Select Cooper

A Beatrice construction executive has been elected president of the Associated General Contractors of America Nebraska chapter. Charles Cooper of the Beatrice Construction Co. succeeds James Baldwin of the Missouri Valley Construction Co., Grand Island. Other officers elected at the chapter's annual convention which ended Thursday included three vice presidents, Anton Vilkak and Dayton Hall, both of Lincoln, and Don Kellogg of Norfolk. William Bowen of Lincoln was elected treasurer.

Amtrak Hours Protested By SPUCC

Holdrege — Directors of the South Platte United Chambers of Commerce, during their January meeting here, voted unanimously to file a protest with Amtrak concerning the railroad's ticket office hours. The McCook representative to the SPUCC requested that the group join the McCook Chamber of Commerce in the protest. The McCook spokesman said that tickets could be bought only between the hours of 9 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Farmers Union Opposes Papio Project

The Farmers Union of Nebraska has announced its opposition to the Papio Creek project proposed by the U.S. Corps of Engineers. Louis Wiebe, FU president, has sent letters to Gov. J. James Exon, members of the Nebraska Legislature, and to U.S. senators and congressmen from Nebraska asking their assistance in killing the project. Wiebe said the project would dispossess 125 farmers and take out of agricultural production some 18,000 acres of prime farmland.

Buffalo Attorney Fined

Kearney (UPI) — Buffalo County Attorney Gary Hogg was fined $25 for violating court orders covering operation of the county jail. Donald Steinmark, who was being held in jail following his arrest in Tuesday's drug raid, had filed suit against Deputy Sheriff Lamoyne Fern. Steinmark accused Fern of not allowing him to consult with his attorney, Andrew McCullen, Tuesday morning. Fern testified in court Wednesday he was only following Hogg's orders. Later, Hogg confirmed that he had issued the order.

Town Has Jitters About Checks

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Wisner — This is cattle feeding country where huge truck loads of feeder cattle, hay and grain bound for packing plants throughout the Midwest are weighed in hourly at scales.

This is also a jittery community which has suddenly begun viewing payment checks with suspicion.

Hannah told some 175 conference participants that "The World Food Conference accomplished much more than could have been realistically expected even by the most optimistic." He expressed surprise upon his return from the Rome conference on finding a general impression in the U.S. that the food conference "emphasized a torrent of words from many speakers and not much meaningful action."

The charge to implement recommendations of the World Food Conference "rests on all nations, all peoples and all governments," Hannah emphasized. And he declared that "how we respond to it will determine what life will be like not only for our own children and grandchildren in Nebraska and the rest of the United States, but on every continent in every country for peoples of all colors, all religions, all political philosophies."

Judges M. C. Matthew and William H. Webster ordered an evidentiary hearing in the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals for Monday to consider the request to overrule U.S. District Judge Richard Robinson in Omaha.

Wednesday, Robinson reversed a federal bankruptcy judge's decision to permit American Beef to use General Electric Credit funds to reopen am a cattle feeder. If it doesn't, perhaps you're looking at a truck driver," he added.

Attorneys and bankers have urged area livestock feeders to avoid making statements to the press on the theory that it might endanger their chances of getting the money for cattle sold to the financially troubled American Beef Packers Inc.

"It has really hurt the fat cattle price. I would estimate that this area has lost 25% of the competitive factor in selling live cattle. What makes it particularly bad is that the price of beef carcasses has risen at the same time, so some packers appear to be benefitting both ways from our troubles," said one feeder who asked not to be identified.

The cow-calf producer is also being hurt by the lack of market for fat cattle. "Nobody knows what to pay for feeders until this mess is cleared up," said another feeder.

Most feeders contacted indicated that they personally would survive the financial problems if the checks were made good within a few months. But for some, there is a major pinch of operating funds that they hope will be temporary.

Packers Ruling Declined

St. Louis, Mo. (UPI) — A two-judge federal appeals court panel

Thursday declined to issue a final ruling on a petition by American Beef Packers, Inc., Omaha, to use funds of its major creditor to reopen its Oakland, Iowa, plant.

Judges M. C. Matthew and William H. Webster ordered an evidentiary hearing in the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals for Monday to consider the request to overrule U.S. District Judge Richard Robinson in Omaha.

In a one-sentence statement, Matthew and Webster said the move by General Electric Credit Corp. to "stay the ruling is denied without prejudice to an evidentiary hearing."

Wednesday, Robinson reversed a federal bankruptcy judge's decision to permit American Beef to use General Electric Credit funds to reopen its Oakland plant. American Beef appealed.

General Electric Credit contends it is American Beef's chief creditor, with some $50 million at stake, in a bankruptcy petition filed in Omaha last week.

In remarks to the appeals court Thursday, American Beef said the firm "hopes to put the money back into use so that the plant (at Oakland) can continue to produce revenue of $125,000 a week."

American Beef attorneys have said the firm, once one of the nation's largest meat processors, had between $5 million and $10 million in General Electric Credit funds ready to plow into the reopening of the Oakland plant.

Thursday, Omaha attorney Jerryold Strasheim, representing General Electric Credit, said his client "can't change the contract."

"I believe it to be the practice that if there is equity, the funds should be allowed to be turned over to the creditors," Strasheim said.

Strasheim told the appeals judges American Beef was asking "to be allowed to preserve the assets that we have and make money to pay our debts."

In his ruling Wednesday, Robinson conceded he had no precedent on which to make his decision. He said considering that it would take some $600,000 daily to operate the Oakland plant, the decision shouldn't be made until the first meeting of creditors is held in Omaha Feb. 7.

Under the bankruptcy petition, American Beef would be allowed to operate while its creditors are paid off.

Teacher Ed Meeting Set

Public and private higher education spokesmen will address a meeting of the Nebraska Council on Teacher Education (NCTE) Friday at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Dr. Anne Campbell, new state education commissioner, and Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan, will address the NCTE general session at 9 a.m. according to Dr. Lois Coleman, NCTE vice president.

This is one of three meetings held each year by the council, a voluntary association of agencies and institutions which have a vital interest in Nebraska teacher education.

The day-long meeting begins with registration at 8:30 a.m. in the Great Hall of Nebraska Wesleyan's new Classroom-Administration Building. The 9 a.m. general session will be held in the U.N. Room on the first floor. Meetings of the five council committees are planned for the rest of the day, winding up with a report to the full council at a concluding general session at 3 p.m.

Harry Hoffman, of Kearney, is NCTE president, and Gerald Sughrue, of the State Education Department, serves as executive secretary.

The council's five committees are:

—Committee I, headed by Ray Weckmiller, Dana, evaluates teacher education programs in colleges;

—Committee II, Joe Dunn, University of Nebraska-Omaha, works with laws regulating teacher certification;

—Committee III, Al Seagren, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, evaluates surplus and demand in teacher education;

—Committee IV, Glen Shafer, State Education Department, deals with teacher education programs at the baccalaureate level and recommends specifications for council approval;

—Committee V, Lou Ninegar, Kearney, acts on teacher education programs at the advanced degree level.

The council was formed in 1946 and its membership includes state colleges, universities, private colleges, State Department of Education, County Superintendents Association and various other education associations and boards.

Earlier Thursday highways in the Panhandle were snowpacked following a one to two-inch snowfall in that area during the night.

Friday's forecast calls for a chance of scattered light snow or flurries for the eastern half of Nebraska beginning by morning and continuing into the afternoon. Mostly sunny weather is predicted for the state Saturday.

Norfolk and Omaha were the state's coldest spots Thursday with six below zero. Lincoln's low for the day was one degree, while the high reached 27.

City Councilman Bob Sikyta was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Lincoln General Hospital Thursday night.

Sikyta was admitted to the hospital Wednesday to undergo tests.

"The loan application still is under consideration and review by the association," the USRA said. "The Rock Island itself has recently changed the timing and scope of the work proposed to be done with the loan and the association still is awaiting details and supporting material from the Rock Island."

"The matter of the loan application is being discussed now at the USRA board meeting to enable the board to be currently informed that no decision can be made until the initial material is received and reviewed. The association intends to come to a decision as quickly as possible."

Ingram said the loan would be used to upgrade track, adding that "anything less than a $100 million loan would be patchwork and not repair."

Slump Shows Up In State Figures

Signs of the beginning of the slump in business in Nebraska appeared in figures for September published in the January edition of "Business in Nebraska," a publication of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

General economic indicators for the state for September were still running higher than last year. They were not, however, as much higher compared to a year ago as they were in August.

For Nebraska, manufacturing activity continued well above that of the same month last year. The state does not seem to have a preponderance of those industries most affected by the current downturn. Diversification, while not preventing some downturn, acts to lessen the degree of recession in the state's economy.

The dollar volume of agricultural production, especially in Nebraska, was considerably lower in September 1973; the physical volume was, however, up over last year. The drop in agricultural prices has not been completely offset by the rise in physical volume. Agricultural prices have fallen more for Nebraska than for the nation as a whole.

One weak spot in production data shows in the distributive sector of the state's economy and was more evident in the state than in the nation. Retail sales, deflated for price changes, were down almost 5% for the state and were down slightly more in the city figures (which do not include motor vehicle sales) than in the area figures (which do include such sales).

The drop in price-adjusted retail sales was especially serious in the areas and cities along the northern and eastern borders of the state. A number of other cities, especially those along Interstate 80 in the central and eastern parts of the state, also had declines in real volumes of retail sales from last year. Retail activity in cities along the western part of the Interstate appeared to be holding up in September.

Banking activity was down in the state from 1973, especially when measured on a price-adjusted basis. Building activity appeared to be holding up in a few localities. Power consumption was almost 8% below last year's levels.

Net taxable retail sales of Nebraska Planning and Development Regions and Cities (deflated for price changes) are:

City Sales (1)	Regional Sales (2)
Sept. 1974 as Percent of Sept. 1973	Sept. 1974 as Percent of Sept. 1973	1974 Year to Date as Percent of 1973 Year to Date

Clinton Recommended As Target For Funds

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The City Community Development Department recommended Thursday that $376,190 of an expected $499,000 in federal community development money be spent in the Clinton area during fiscal year 1975.

The recommendations were presented to the 22-member community development task force for study.

Director Leo Scherer said the Clinton area was chosen as the first target area because there is sufficient "information and data about its needs, conditions and problems that the city can move immediately with a program that would start to help control deteriorating and blighting conditions."

The funds used in the Clinton area will go toward loans, grants, loan guarantees and other means of housing rehabilitation, street paving and sidewalks and alley maintenance.

The money will also be used for an environmental health officer, beautification and an outreach worker for elderly needs and programs.

The majority of the remaining $107,810 will go for a bookmobile for low and moderate income areas not now being served, demolition and clearance of abandoned and dilapidated buildings, park land acquisition and historical preservation.

Money will also be spent for collection and analysis of neighborhood information, management and planning for further community development programming and a feasibility study of an assisted living complex for the handicapped and disabled.

Scherer also said that Ralph Nelson, corporation counsel for the community development department, told the group that the city will have $13 million available from other sources, some of which could be used for other community development projects.

Scherer stressed that the proposals are only recommendations and may be altered by the task force.

Action To Raise Gas 5.9% per gallon increase in gasoline prices.

Ford can take two actions to raise the price without congressional consent. Congress has the power to veto one, but not the other.

The President announced in his State of the Union Address that he would impose a tariff of $1 a barrel Feb. 1 on imported oil, and $2 on March 1.

He needs no new authority from Congress to impose the tariff. Some lawmakers have spoken of asking him to delay the plan until Congress reviews it.

Ford also said he will remove controls on the 64% of domestic oil production whose price is controlled at $5.25 a barrel.

Either house of Congress is empowered to veto the relaxation of controls.

Ford announced he would raise the tariff to $3 April 1 unless by then congress imposes a $2 per barrel excise tax on all oil — the 63% produced in this country and the 37% on consumption that is imported.

Approval of the tax is by no means certain. Its enactment would raise the price of oil to $13.40 a barrel and translate into a 10 cents per gallon gasoline price increase.

Following a news conference, Alvin Cook, director of the FEA's Office of Economic Impact, borrowed a reporter's calculator and computed the price rises.

Ford also asked Congress to impose excise taxes which would raise the prices of other fuels proportionately as high as oil.

Cook said the 37 cents per 1,000 cubic feet tax Ford recommended for natural gas would double its price in some places.

AIM Planning Rally At Capitol To Urge Peace

Members of the Lincoln chapter of the American Indian Movement plan to demonstrate at the State Capitol Friday in support of the mission occupation at Gresham, Wis.

According to spokesman Frank Black Elk, 50 to 75 people will meet on Capitol's north steps at 3 p.m. "to seek an audience with senators or hopefully with the governor himself."

Black Elk said the object of the rally was to get a message sent to the Wisconsin governor urging residents of the Gresham area "to keep things as peaceful as possible."

Being considered are whether the applications should be heard by the planning commission only, a hearing officer only or the City Council and County Board only.

Rezoning applications are currently heard by the planning commission and the City Council or the County Board. The procedure involves public hearing before two bodies.

Drawbacks Of Tinted Glasses

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

If you are looking at the world through gray-tinted glasses, you may be missing more than you realize.

And what you don't see may endanger your life if you rely on tinted shades for night-time driving, some optometrists say.

Developed several years ago by Corning Glass Works in New York, photochromic glass lenses are the latest rage in optical wear.

Sensitive to ultraviolet light, the glass is impregnated with invisible microcrystals of silver halide which darken when sunlight strikes it. When the light is removed, the crystals clear again. This completely reversible process is locked in to the composition of the glass.

The glass, however, always retains a slight tint which, in fact, allows only 85% of the available light in. Clear glass by comparison, screens out about 8% of normal light.

At their darkest, photochromic lenses transmit 45% of the light, while good sunglasses let in only 20-30%.

Not Really Either

Hailed by eyeglass wearers as two pairs of glasses in one, the changeable lenses according to some optometrists, adequately perform the job of either a clear lens or a sunglass. And they generally cost at least $5-10 more.

"They (photochromic lenses) are certainly not for everybody," said Lincoln optometrist Richard Powell.

But he says he has a big problem advising patients because there "so much hoopla about the darn lens, people almost have their minds made up."

Powell guessed that in his office about one patient in 15 who wears the lenses complains and wishes he hadn't gotten them.

Some say they strain to see at night, he said, while others complain about reduced vision indoors, especially in dimly lit areas.

Photochromic lenses transmit 45% of the light, while good sunglasses let in only 20-30%.

Patients who wear that lens are not 100% satisfied," Powell observed.

One reason for the dissatisfaction

Powell believes, is that the limitations of the lenses are never explained.

Powell said his patients are always wanting a darker tint than what they have been wearing. "Let's get away from some of that tint," Powell urged. He worries that wearers' eyes are becoming "light-adapted" through tints. If the eye is healthy, he feels, it really doesn't need all that tint.

'Wrong Direction'

"No matter what you do, you're moving in the wrong direction when you take away light," Powell said.

R. D. Peck, Lincoln optometrist and president-elect of the Nebraska Optometric Assn., says his patients constantly ask if they "can have that lens that changes from sunglasses to white lens."

Peck says he takes a lot of his time each day to give patients the full facts on the changeable lens. In the end, he said, less than 10% of his patients choose to wear the photochromic glass.

"The lenses stay dark longer when they are cold, old and thick," Peck said.

He said that when the glass is removed from sunlight, it will clear halfway in about 10 minutes — to 65% transmission. It takes an hour and a half to return to the normal indoor tint. Some people, he said, are inconvenienced indoors because of the slowly clearing lens.

And ultraviolet transmission from fluorescent lighting tends to keep the lenses a shade darker, Peck said. He also noted that heavily tinted car windshields keep out the sun's ultraviolet rays so that lenses help people see better at the end of the day, he feels.

Crotty did add that in combination with a darkly tinted windshield, the darkened lenses might be a problem for some night-time driving. However, he said, he wears photochromic lenses for driving at night and he's never had any problems.

"Some people have a certain amount of night blindness," Crotty said, "and these people are going to have some trouble anyway." For optometrists, weeding out these kinds of people in advance is difficult, they say.

At least one-third of Crotty's clients get photochromic lenses.

And he says he's had complaints from only three patients. "The lenses are more a benefit for

At present, the State Department of Roads has no regulations regarding the wearing of tinted lenses for night-time driving, reported Ken Sieckmeyer, safety division manager.

He could not say how many night-time accidents might have been caused by drivers wearing tinted glasses because such information is not included in accident reports.

Dr. Patrick Crotty, Auburn optometrist, has more positive feelings about the light-to-dark lens.

A wearer himself, Crotty feels these lenses "have a place in our visual world today."

He said that people who have been driving all day without sunglasses lose up to 80% of their ability to see for awhile when the sun goes down and that's why there are so many accidents at that time. Photochromic

Nevertheless, people continue to flock to optical shops demanding the "two-in-one" glasses.

However, Corning Glass Works, in its brochure on a new photosun lens — the darkest of the photochromic shades — suggests "many eye care specialists feel that the use of sunglasses for night driving reduces visual acuity. Corning agrees with this and therefore we do not recommend the use of photosun sunglasses for night driving."

In the meantime, Crotty suggests that people who drive at night should wear photochromic lenses.

How Would You Bid These?

By B. JAY BECKER

Your right-hand opponent bids One Notrump (16 to 18 points), both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ AKQ962 ♥ K5 ♦ A ♣ J872
2. ♠ A7 ♥ KQJ96 ♦ QJ953 ♠ 10
3. ♠ J ♥ AK ♦ K9732 ♣ KJ764
4. ♠ 5 ♥ KQ82 ♦ AQ94 ♣ KJ76

1. Double. In general, the double of a notrump indicates at least as good a hand as the opener's. However, the doubler need not have a notrump type of hand and, in fact, quite often he will have a good suit of his own as part of his double.

The oft-heard argument that a double of a notrump is for penalties rather than takeout is more a matter of semantics than bridge theory. The partner of the doubler frequently passes, but this is based more on common sense than on a hard and fast rule that the double is for penalties.

In the present case, you hope that partner will pass and so inflict a heavy penalty, but in any event you should not bid two spades, which would bypass an excellent opportunity for a windfall.

2. Two hearts. You can't afford to be overly intimidated by a notrump bid, and you should be willing to contest the auction when it is reasonably safe to do so, as in this case. It is

Police Seek Robber Of Omaha Bank

Omaha (UPI) — Police Thursday were looking for a man who robbed the drive-in facility of the Omaha National Bank in downtown Omaha Wednesday evening of an estimated $3,000.

Authorities were told the man entered the bank about 5:30 p.m., handed teller Ardell Savage a note and gave her a paper bag to fill with money.

He never produced a weapon or indicated he had one, police said.

Keith Feilmeier, bank operations officer, said the alarm was set off while the man was in the bank, and it was believed a picture of the robber had been taken.

Many of the bills taken by the bandit had been marked, Feilmeier said.

John G. Desmond

Desmond Head
Of St. Elizabeth
Hospital Board

John G. Desmond Jr. was installed as president of the board of directors of St. Elizabeth Health Center Thursday.

Desmond succeeds Loren B. Belker, who will continue on the board in a one-year elective post.

Walter G. Stephenson Jr. was re-elected as the board's vice president, and Robert D. Northrop and Jack E. Stiles will serve as treasurer and secretary, respectively.

All Fire Safety Standards Met
By Full Circle

Full Circle has been fully licensed by the State Health Department, according to Joe Hageman, director of the division of standards.

Lincoln's residential drug counseling center, at 2545 N., previously had been denied licensure under the state's expanded license law, LB513, for failure to meet state and local fire safety standards.

The facility was reinspected and approved Tuesday afternoon by the state fire marshal's office and the Lincoln Fire Department, said Charles Herbst, assistant fire marshal.

The license was signed and became effective Wednesday, Hageman said.

6 Appointments
Are Announced

Gov. J. James Exon announced Thursday the appointment of Sheila Anne Ryan of Omaha to the State Board of Nursing.

She will serve a four-year term, replacing Mrs. Marilyn Weber Johnson of Omaha.

Exon also announced the reappointment of Roy R. Robertson of Norfolk to the State Power Review Board.

Other reappointments announced included Leon Kumar of Grant, Ralph Luebeck of Stamford, Judson Cornette of Alliance and J. S. Lewis of Daykin to the Weather Control Commission.

Funeral Slated
For D. Ahrens

Detroit (AP) — Services for Don E. Ahrens, retired vice president of General Motors and general manager of its Cadillac Division, will be Friday in the suburb of Beverly Hills. Ahrens, 84, died Tuesday.

The Cheyenne, Neb., County native graduated from the University of Nebraska and joined GM as a salesman in the Cadillac Division in Chicago in 1925.

He was promoted and in 1950 became general manager of the division and a vice president of the corporation. He retired in 1956. He was chairman of the state GOP finance committee for several years.

467 Die In Crashes*

Washington (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board reported 467 persons were killed in airline accidents last year — the highest total since 1960 — and said the fatal accident rate increased for the third straight year.

CIA Acted On Orders, — Helms

The New York Times

Washington — Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told Congress Thursday that the CIA had become involved in domestic intelligence gathering on presidential authority because of "the sudden and quite dramatic upsurge of extreme radicalism in this country and abroad" beginning in the late 1950's.

Discussing the agency's spying, Helms, in a four-page statement released by the Senate armed services intelligence subcommittee, said: "By and in itself this violence, this dissent, this radicalism were of no direct concern to the Central Intelligence Agency."

"It became so only in the degree that the trouble was inspired by, or coordinated with, or funded by, anti-American subversion mechanisms abroad."

"In such event," he added,
"the CIA had a real, a clear and proper function to perform, but in collaboration with the FBI the agency did perform that function in response to the express concern of the President."

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, who served as the agency's director from 1966 to 1973, did not say in his statement which president had authorized what.
Nor was it immediately clear which radical groups in the late 1950's had been responsible for precipitating the CIA's domestic activities.

The time period cited by Helms, including his years of CIA director, covered the presidencies of Dwight D.
Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy,
Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard
M. Nixon.

Five Senate and House committees and subcommittees have announced hearing into allegations of domestic spying and President Ford has established an eight-member
"blue ribbon" commission to conduct its own inquiry for the executive branch.

Millard Defeats LSE Gals

Millard — A fast break and press helped unbeaten Millard beat Lincoln Southeast, 34-23, here Thursday night in a high school girls basketball game.

Millard used the fast break to score two quick baskets at the start of the game, but the Knights closed the gap when their defense stiffened in the second quarter.

However, Millard utilized a press in the third quarter to put the game out of reach combined with a good defense.

The win boosted Millard's record to 5-0, while Southeast dropped to 1-2. Millard's reserves also hiked its record to 5-0 by beating the Knights reserves, 31-15, with the LSE reserves' record dropping to 0-3.

Shari Stone paced the Capital City team varsity with nine points, while Reen McCormick led the Millard varsity with seven.

Straub Slips To Eighth

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Lincoln Bill Straub fell to eighth place here Thursday after the second day (18 games) of the $100,000 Showboat Invitational Bowling Tournament.

Straub has a total of 3,960 and is trimmed to the top 24 qualifiers. Match play was to continue Thursday night.

The record field of 264 was noted that "Auburn will really be laying for us Friday. They'll be sky-high."

Moore indicated that "we'll probably take turns guarding Lessor so we don't get in foul trouble. Obviously, we've got to put some pressure on them to get the ball up the court."

According to Moore, Fairbury has played against Lessor only once since he became a state-wide standout as a sophomore.

"He (Lessor) scored 16 against Robert Siegel in a tournament two years ago as a sophomore," related Moore, "but he didn't play last year against us. He was sick."

The contest will be the finale of the four-game series between the two National Basketball Association clubs, which Philadelphia leads, 3-0.

It's a study in joy as Kermit Zarley birdies the 14th hole with a 30-foot putt. The par four hole is considered as one of the most difficult to putt, but Zarley still fell short of Johnny Miller's blistering round.

Capital City Teams Down This Season?

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Editor

It's a sports fact of life — if its and butts were candy and nuts, everybody would be happy.

But it seems like Lincoln public school basketball teams have had more ifs and buts in one month than they usually do in a season.

In short, Capital City teams haven't been able to win the close game this season. A basket here, a free throw there might have completely changed the overall picture.

But right now, Lincoln is stuck with an unwanted label — Capital City basketball is down this season. It's reflected in a combined 4-11 record among public school teams.

Pius X, the defending state Class B champion, is also struggling with a 2-4 record, making the overall mark among the five teams a dismal 6-15.

Lincoln, the state's most productive basketball community in the last eight years, made a habit of being able to win the close game.

Opponents are showing that same ability this season. Consider that three of Lincoln High's four losses have been by 3, 3 and 4 points; Northeast has lost 1-point and 4-point decisions; Southeast has dropped a 2-pointer and East has absorbed a 1-point setback.

Despite the adversity, Lincoln coaches aren't about to throw in the towel and concede a sub-par season.

East and Northeast still rate as prime state-wide contenders. Lincoln High and Southeast still intend to be major factors in Trans-Nebraska and Eastern I-80 Conference chases.

Not only are Lincoln teams coming up short in the win column this season. Scoring also is down. Pius X's Mitch Ohnoutka is the city's top point-maker with only an 11.7 average.

Thunderbolt teammate Paul Tlamka rates as the city's hottest scorer. The 6-2 junior forward played only a couple minutes in Pius X's first two games and did not play in its third game.

But since moving to the varsity and cracking the lineup in the Central City Holiday Tournament, Tlamka has delivered 12 points against Aurora and 16 against both Centennial and Omaha Holy Name. He's averaging 8.8 points a game.

Lincoln teams hope to initiate Operation Bounceback this weekend. Three games are scheduled in the Capital City Friday night.

The feature attraction is the intra-city scrap at Pershing Auditorium between Northeast and Lincoln High.

Also Friday, East entertains Beatrice in a non-conference game and Southeast hosts Grand Island in a Trans-Nebraska test at LHS's Johnson Gym.

Pius X also plays at home Saturday night against the Southwest Conference's Gothenburg. Southeast plays Omaha South at Norris Junior High in Omaha in the only other Saturday night contest involving a Lincoln team.

Same Old Tale, Miller In Lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller ran off a string of five birdies in six holes late in the day Thursday to zoom past the field and into a one-shot lead over Don Iverson, Ralph Johnston and John Mahaffey with a six under par 66 after the first round of the $200,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open.

The 27-year-old Californian, who won eight tournaments in 1974 and the Phoenix Open last week to open the 1975 PGA tour, had that same powerful game well under control while playing in less than ideal conditions.

He went out in the afternoon under a strong cloud cover and, with a breeze whipping across the Tucson National Golf Club, shot 35-31 for his leading score.

Miller Barber, Lee Elder, Leonard Thompson, Mike Hill and PGA champ Lee Trevino, who is ailing, were another shot back at 68, while Arnold Palmer, making his 1975 debut, shot a disappointing even-par 72 and U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin had a 73.

All of the leaders except Miller, Trevino, Mahaffey and Hill played in the morning, as did Palmer, when conditions were somewhat better. As the day wore on, the greens—fast to begin with—became even faster as well as bumpy.

But it didn't seem to bother Miller, the 1974 player of the year who is bent on winning the first three events this year as he did in 1974, including the Phoenix and Tucson Opens and the Crosby National Pro-Am, which comes up next week at Pebble Beach, Calif.

"I'm just playing as good as I can," Miller said. "I didn't putt bad but I never made a 15-footer. If I hit it as well as the rest of the week, no one is going to beat me."

Bob Stanton, Labron Harris, Mike Mitchell, Rik Massengale, Rod Funseth, John Schroeder and Dave Hill were at 69, three under par and three behind Miller, while former Tucson Open champ Gene Little, Tom Weiskopf and England's Peter Oosterhuis were in a group at 70.

Billy Casper, another former Tucson champ, was in a big group at one-under 71 while Palmer was tied with more than a dozen players at 72.

A New Football Statistic

Announcers on National Football League telecasts late during the recent season started talking about a new statistic that I guess is supposed to prove something. It's called "average number of points scored per 100 yards gained."

Applying the formula to recent Nebraska football teams, Coach Tom Osborne's 1974 Cornhuskers stack up very favorably with the great teams of 1970-71-72 and they were better by quite a bit than the 1973 team.

The Huskers averaged 7.66 points for every 100 yards of total offense compared with an output of 6.52 by the 1973 team.

The best team in the last six years on that statistic was the 1972 club, which had a couple of disappointing three-point losses and a tie en route to a 9-2-1 season. That team scored 9.21 points for every 100 yards picked up.

The figures for the two national championship teams were 9.05 in 1971 and 8.64 in 1970.

Looking at points yielded to the opposition, the 1974 defensive unit did a better job than the 1970 team. It gave up 4.16 points per 100 yards opponents picked up, compared with 5.18 yards in 1970. A year ago, the defense yielded 5.62 to opponents.

The top two teams defensively were the 1972 and 1972 units, which yielded 3.82 and 3.83 points respectively.

Nebraska's specialty team used when the Huskers were putting did an exceptional job during the season which ended with the Sugar Bowl game victory over Florida.

Randy Lessman was called on to punt 45 times. Yet the coverage was so good that only 15 of them were returned for an average runback of just three yards.

That compares with 6.9 per return in 1973, 8.0 in 1972, 6.8 in 1971 and 10.2 in 1970.

Fresh Guard Sizzles

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano isn't kidding when he says his starting guards Jerry Fort and Steve Willis will have their hands full Saturday afternoon when the Huskers open the Big Eight Conference season against Kansas State.

The Wildcats have a pair of guards who have averaged over 35 points a game between them this season, including a 45-point output against the Huskers in the Big Eight holiday tournament.

Fort and Willis also are capable of having such an afternoon as they demonstrated when they combined for 41 points in the NU win over Oklahoma in the opener of the tournament.

Hottest shooter for the KSU team is freshman guard Mike Evans, who ranks third in the conference with a .549 field goal shooting average. His running mate is Chuckie Williams, a .399 shooter a year ago who is averaging 48 per cent this season.

"Mike certainly isn't playing like a freshman," remarked KSU coach Jack Hartman. "He does things you expect from veterans. He's becoming more poised and confident with each game he plays."

Evans is the "quarterback" of the Wildcats' offense, a role held down last year by graduated standout Lon Krueger.

Going into the season, Williams and Hercle Ivy of Iowa State were regarded the league's best shooters, but neither rank among the top percentage shooters in the latest Big Eight statistics.

Top are Bob Pritchard of Oklahoma with a .578 average and Evans at .549. Alvan Adams of Oklahoma is next at .543 and Nebraska's Larry Cox is just a shade back at .542.

Ivy is the top scorer, however, with a 26.6 point a game average. Adams is next at 26.5 and the No. 3 scorer is Willie Smith of Missouri at 19.2.

Adams leads Andy Hopson of Oklahoma in rebound average with a 13.6 mark compared with Hopson's 10.8 norm.

controllable factor in the family budget. The important thing will be knowing you can get the gasoline."

With fuel available, RV and camper units will be hitting the roads with more regularity this year.

Nearly everyone who made it through the early trouble had problems keeping enough equipment on hand later in the year.

"The end result (of last year's struggle) is there are fewer dealers now," said Larry McClain, president of the board for the Recreational Vehicle Dealers of America (RVDA). "The dealers remaining are more service-minded, more professional. It helped the consumer. They are now more assured of getting quality service than they were before."

Last year's energy crunch did more than just weed out borderline cases of qualified RV dealers, according to McClain. It proved the RV is here to stay as an accepted part of American living.

McClain, operator of McClain's The Campsite in Oklahoma City, Okla., was in Nebraska this week to open the Omaha Midwest Recreational Vehicle and Camping Show in Civic Auditorium. The showing of dealers and products available in the eastern Nebraska area opened Thursday and runs through Sunday.

"These shows are dealer-oriented shows," McClain said. "The people who are the stars of these shows, so to speak, are there for the family to see, to show them the types, shapes and sizes of recreational vehicles all under one roof and to help shoppers in some decision making."

McClain indicated the industry is not likely to hold any punches this year in going after the public. Despite uncertainty concerning gas prices, the dealers have been assured gasoline will be available, avoiding last year's problem issue.

"High gasoline prices would be a minor factor," McClain said of the family RV camping outlook this year. "That will be a

San Francisco — I went over to the Westbury Hotel the other night and talked to a lot of leggy chicks who hope to become "Miss Chinatown" in the New Year of the Rabbit.

"Gray and rainy days around Snug Harbor. The sun comes and goes occasionally, like girls to the powder room to straighten out their faces. (Why does a whole tableful of chicks go to restaurant powder rooms in convoy? A mystery man has never solved.)

So to press.

When I was shoveling coal for the dailies (and trying to fathom out women's minds) we interviewed a lot of Miss Raisin Queens. Plum Queens. Miss Cable Car. And once, Miss Potato Chips.

It was long before topless shows took the mystery out of these things. The need was fulfilled by the photographic press.

"Lean forward a little bit more, honey," said the cameraman. He got up on a chair and shot downward. Those photographers knew their business.

I took down the names and statements.

"I love to eat raisins," said Miss Raisin Queen. "It does wonderful things for the skin."

I think it did. She has a lot of skin showing. It surely looked good to me. (But who wants to hear about a walk down Memory Lane?)

We photographed Zorina, Queen of the Nudists, when she appeared at the San Francisco World's Fair.

She was raw as a radish. She was swimming from the World's Fair to the mainland. For modesty's sake — a family newspaper — we had her partially concealed in the water.

The water in the bay is cold as billy-o.

"Will you guys hurry up?" said Zorina. "This water is freezing."

It was a healthy, outdoor life I took down names — and telephone numbers if they were reasonable about it.

Power Case May End Friday

Closing arguments are expected Friday in a case involving a power rate dispute between Lincoln Electric System (LES) and Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

A NPPD official testified Thursday that the rates charged Lincoln for wholesale electric power are not developed in accordance with the contract with LES.

Henry Rice of NPPD testified that the wholesale rate charged Lincoln is actually lower than could be charged under terms of the contract.

He said that if the contract were followed, LES rates would be hiked about 7%.

However, on questioning by LES attorney Norman Kivosh, Rice said current wholesale rates charged LES produce adequate revenues for NPPD.

In the case being tried before Lancaster District Judge William Hastings, LES contends that NPPD's wholesale rates to Lincoln were excessive and resulted in NPPD's receiving revenues exceeding times debt service.

The money was half that raised last November when the Ramseys sold some furniture and personal effects because they were moving to a smaller home after his retirement as head of the Church of England.

Christian Aid Director Alan Booth said he was "naturally" pleased with the donation. "Many would have regarded the proceeds as a means to ease the burdens of retirement," he said. "Bishop and Lady Ramsey thought first of heavier burdens borne by others."

The City reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, and to waive any defect in proposals.

$11,500 Given To Christian Aid

London (AP) — Former

Archbishop of Canterbury Arthur

Ramsey and his wife have given

$11,500 to the Christian Aid

charity, it was disclosed

Wednesday.

Twenty-four people were arrested and 60,000 homemade pills, about 15 pounds of marijuana, $10,000 in cash and at least four handguns were seized in raids on nine Lincoln residences early Thursday morning, according to police.

Capt. Roger LaPage said the homemade tablets appeared to be amphetamines. The drugs were undergoing testing.

Most of those arrested were charged with multiple counts Thursday afternoon in Lancaster County Court.

All but two of the counts were felonies.

According to Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Bob Gibson

the drugs seized in the raids would have an illegal street sales value of about $20,000.

In addition to the suspected marijuana and amphetamines, a small amount of LSD was seized.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
